PHILOSOPHY OF FILM

A New Book Series by Brill

General Editor: Thorsten Botz-Bornstein, Gulf University for Science and Technology, Kuwait

Over the last several decades an increasing number of people have studied film with a general interest in philosophy. Philos-sophia, the love of wisdom, is an attempt at interpreting or questioning human existence and the world in its entirety. Naturally film can be one of its subjects. In this series, philosophical writers account for their experience of specific films, directors, certain themes, or the phenomenon of film in general. Philosophy of film exceeds the schedule of mere interpretation and puts film in relationship with classical philosophical questions such as (its own) essence, truth, or beauty. Those reflections can also take the form of film aesthetics and film theory, which are philosophical inasmuch as their approaches are methodologically sophisticated and they transgress empiricism. Benefiting from the intellectual wealth of the entire history of the humanities, this series is an ideal source for anyone interested in the philosophical dimensions of cinema.

Submission instructions

Monographs, edited volumes as well as "companions to" are welcome. The minimum length is 75000 words main text. Please send a book proposal and a CV to thorstenbotz@hotmail.com. We will then decide whether the project can be taken further. Your proposal should contain a "contents," a summary (1000–1400 words). Do indicate when you expect the final manuscript to be ready. Also tell us how many chapters have been published beforehand as articles. All final manuscripts must come in perfect English.

Complete manuscripts will be double-blind peer reviewed.

Your MS should not be simultaneously submitted to another press.
